

On 11 June 2007, Mr Thompson joined the Constabulary as the new Chief Constable. Throughout his former career, he served alongside the police service in different operational environments and has seen active service in Northern Ireland and Oman. He served for 18 years with the Foreign Commonwealth Office covering a wide range of policy and operational risks with overseas postings to Stockholm, Geneva, Pristina and Baghdad. He was also seconded to the Home Office during the fuel crisis.

Mr Thompson oversees the strategic direction of the CNC and Chair of the Strategic Tasking and Coordination Group
